Speakers demand accurate upcoming national census

Decrying tampering with census data, they explain importance of the exercise

OUR CORRESPONDENT

KARACHI

Sindh must independently carry out the census by selecting two to three random blocks in any of the 28 districts to challenge the tampered data of census carried out by the federal government, suggested economist Dr Kaiser Bengali.

He demanded the issuance of ward-wise census data in order to minimise the fear of tampering rather than holding accumulated figures for months before announcing it centrally. He made these demands during a seminar titled 'National Census and Reservations of Sindh', organised by the Save Sindh Committee at Pakistan Medical Association (PMA) House on Wednesday.

"However, I don't expect political or intellectual honesty in upcoming national census, which is being held after a gap of 19 years due to discriminatory attitude by the census commissioner," he said, adding that we will only be able to counter the federal government if we work hard to get our voices heard in Islamabad.

Researcher Dr Haris Gazdar remarked that the census is a technical issue and must be conducted as it is connected with constitutional and political rights of the people. "The census is the people's right and the state's obligation," he said.

However, Dr Gazdar expressed dismay at the way the figures of the last national census were distorted. "If it were to happen again it would raise questions about the upcoming censuses for years to come," he said, adding that seats in the National Assembly and National Finance Commission awards are directly related to population census.

"If the federal government becomes sincere, fear, hatred and animosity between the provinces can be reduced

Political activist Abdul Qayyum Chandio

He told participants of the seminar that the ratio of population in Sindh in relation to the rest of the country did not change in the 1981 and 1998 censuses and remained almost same at 22.58% and 22.9% respectively. This cannot be possible considering that migration, fertility and other factors were on the rise, he said.

According to him, the 5.47 household-size in rural areas of Sindh in the 1998 census is nothing short of miraculous. He said the figure was tampered with heavily and these figures were rejected by the Sindh Assembly at the time.

He stressed that in Sindh, especially in the rural areas, the increase in national census data can go off to parent national stakeholder. Political activist stressed, "It comes since between the Lawyer A census should level information and different addressed. Former P Dr Habib S should open the data is we must sit results. # Anti-corruption agency on t cards in Sindh

KARACHI

Sindh government plans to establish a Sindh Anti-Corruption Agency replacing the Anti-Corruption Establishment to probe corruption and irregularities in the province.

This proposal was floated during an anti-corruption meeting chaired by Sindh Chief Minister Murad Ali Shah on Wednesday. "Under the new law, an official found guilty of corruption will be suspended [at least for 10 years]," he said, adding that no elected representative - be it an MPA or an MNA - will be disqualified.

According to a CM House spokesperson who shared the details of the meeting to the media, once this law is passed, the anti-corruption agency will no longer need any committee's approval to lodge the FIR against corrupt officials.

A board of anti-corruption will work under the patronage of the National Accountability Bureau (NAB) making all the decisions on its own. In this existing law, the anti-corruption officials have to seek approval from competent authorities including the chief secretary before taking any action.
