and Political Rights also applied to the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, in line with a ruling by the International Court of Justice. Israel disagrees and in its written report to the panel did not respond to its questions on the Palestinian territories. The UN panel said settlement construction had "more than doubled" since 2010 and said this had to stop.

The UN panel also called for an end to Israel's practice of holding Palestinians in administrative detention - or detention without trial - and voiced concern at the "fact that in many cases the detention order is based on secret evidence". Israeli authorities say administrative detention is used in security-related cases and helps to protect confidential sources from exposure in court, critics.

Kurds enter Syria to form Islamic State

Kobani, on the border with Turkey, has been encircled by the insurgents for more than 40 days.

Weeks of US-led air strikes have failed to break their stranglehold, and Kurds are hoping the arrival of the peshmerga will turn the tide. The siege of Kobani - known in Arabic as Ayn al-Arab - has become a test of the US-led coalition's ability to stop insurgents' advance, and US has welcomed the peshmerga's deployment, critics.
