Infrastructure projects to help create new job opportunities: minister

BEIJING: Minister of Planning Development and Reform Ahsan Iqbal has said new infrastructure projects are source of more jobs and bring more tax income for the government.

He was addressing to the panelists attending the annual Boao Forum for Asia called for more investment in infrastructure projects between China and other countries.

Ahsan Iqbal has said that with the start of new projects between Pakistan and China both countries would get benefits in terms of income and generation of jobs.

On China's side Zhang

Jiehui, vice-governor of Hebei province said that there are more than 700 companies in steel and iron industries in Hebei that made investment and built factories overseas, each of which is making a profit.

He said by moving factories abroad Chinese companies specialized in these fields. They could better play their roles in countries with higher demand in steel, cement and other manufacturing products.

Zhang added further that investment would be made in cooperation with Pakistan and Kazakhstan, and he expected a prospective future for further cooperation.

China has signed agreements on capacity collaboration with dozens of countries, including developing countries along the Road and Belt Initiative, and developed countries, such as France, according to Ning, who noted that it will be easier to start working with neighboring countries such as Pakistan and Kazakhstan as they have greater demand in terms of infrastructure compared with developed countries.

The initiative, proposed by China in 2013, is meant to improve transport infrastructure linking Asia and Europe. —INP

One child loses sight in every minute, seminar told

RAWALPINDI: Al Shifa Trust Eye Hospital President General Hamid Javed (ret'd) on Saturday, termed lack of knowledge about the eye related disease as main reason for spreading blindness both among the children and young people.

As per findings of our survey, 85% people who lost their eyesight due to some diseases were curable, but people prone to these diseases were not well informed about the possible cure centres or hospitals, General Hamid Javed (R) said while addressing the concluding session of one-day seminar on Paediatric Ophthalmology here at the hospital.

The seminar was held to mark the ongoing Silver Jubilee Celebrations of Al Shifa Eye Hospital. A large number of foreign and local ophthalmologists and experts took active part in the seminar and shared their expertise and experiences.

General Hamid (R) said that it was matter of grave concern as number of people prone to eye related diseases was increasing day by day while globally one child loses eyesight in every minute while the ratio in Pakistan is alarming as five hundred thousand children are blind.

As per a careful assessment, percentage of blind people makes up almost one percent of total population of Pakistan, thus people falling between one hundred thousand to two hundred thousands have either become blind or moving towards blind-

Portuguese court paves way for ex-CIA agent's extradition to Italy

LISBON: Portugal's highest court has approved the extradition to Italy of a former CIA agent convicted over the kidnapping of an Egyptian imam as part of the agency's secret renditions programme, a judicial source told AFP Saturday.

US and Portuguese citizen Sabrina de Sousa, 59, lost her final appeal to avoid extradition to Italy, ordered by Lisbon's Court of Appeal in January and upheld by the country's Supreme Court in March.

The Constitutional Court ruled inadmissible earlier this week the argument of her lawyer, Manuel de Magalhaes e Silva, that she would not be guaranteed a fresh trial in Italy.

De Sousa was one of 23 Americans, including 22 CIA agents, convicted in 2009 by an Italian court over the 2003 abduction in Milan of Osama Mustafa Hassan Nasr, better known as Abu Omar.

Gambia posts wanted notice for journalist who escaped during trial

BANJUL, (Gambia): Gambia authorities circulated on Saturday a wanted notice for a young journalist on trial for sedition who escaped from the hospital where he was receiving treatment.

Alagie Ceesay, manager of the Teranga FM radio station, broke out Wednesday of a facility in the Gambia's capital Banjul.

It is "an offence to harbour Mr Ceesay or aid him to leave this country," said the statement from prison authorities. "Anyone found to do so will face the full force of the law."

"The department on prisons is appealing to the general public to report to the nearest police station or security installation if his whereabouts are known," the statement said.

Ceesay was arrested by the country's secret police in July last year and has been denied bail four times despite mounting concern over his health.

When he failed to show up for a court appearance on Wednesday, the judge was told by a prison officer that he was no longer in their custody.

The journalist had previously been hospitalised on multiple occasions suffering from liver and asthma problems, with rights groups calling for his unconditional release due to the nature of his prosecution.

The charges of sedition and "publication of false news" against Ceesay relate to allegations that he distributed images by mobile phone of a gun pointed at a picture of President Yahya Jammeh.

Fatou Jagne Senghor, regional director of rights group Article 19, said on Monday the charges against Ceesay were "baseless".

Ceesay has had several brushes with the law in the small west African country, whose iron-fisted leader Jammeh is regularly accused of rights abuses and repression of the media.

The Gambia ranked 145 out of 180 countries in Reporters Without Borders' recently published 2016 World Press

Freedom Index, pointing to "a climate of terror around anything remotely to do with journalism."—AFP
