MCL, PITB launch initiative to issue e-building permits for warehouses

LAHORE (INP): The Metropolitan Corporation Lahore (MCL), in collaboration with the Punjab Information Technology Board, launched an initiative to issue e-building permits for warehouses from e-Khidmat Centre at Town Hall, Lahore. Mayor of Lahore Col. (Rtd.) Mubashir Javed, Secretary P&D Iftikhar Ali Sahoo, representative of Punjab Information Technology Board, Project Implementation Unit staff, representatives of CMO and DG, LG&CD also attended the inauguration ceremony hosted at Jinnah Hall, Lahore.

The launch of e-building permit issuance of the warehouse from the facilitation centre is part of the overall reform agenda that the Government of Punjab has envisaged to facilitate the public/investors. This has been made possible through tireless efforts of P&D, MCL/LG&CD and Punjab Information Technology Board. Through this facility the citizen can obtain construction permits from e-Khidmat Centres within 21 days. Addressing the participants, Secretary P&D Iftikhar Ali Sahoo said that the program intervention is to improve the aggregate performance of Pakistan in the 'Doing Business' indicators which fall under the jurisdiction of the province, like starting a business, registering property, dealing with construction permits and enforcing contracts.

He said that now the issuance of construction permits would take only 21 days instead of more than 200 days, which would greatly benefit the general public investors and save their precious time. Through this initiative, investors would be provided a one-window facility, thus eliminating the need to visit various offices and reducing processing time, P&D Secretary added. The P&D Secretary Iftikhar Sahoo said that Planning and Development Department, Government of the Punjab has embarked upon the agenda of improving investment climate in the province by improving aggregate performance on key 'Doing Business' indicators through collaborative approach involving private sector and development partners.

Meanwhile, efforts from industry and government to foster interest in hybrid and all-electric cars bore little fruit.

The number of hybrids sold grew 76 percent, while the number of pure battery-powered cars more than doubled with 120 percent growth. — AFP showed household spending rose in the third quarter at the slowest pace since 2012.

Kallum Pickering, an economist at Barenberg, said the IHS Markit/CIPS survey put the economy on course for growth around 1.8 percent for 2017 as a whole — better than most forecasters expected.

The IHS Markit/CIPS services Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) rose to 54.2 in December, its second-highest reading since April, beating forecasts in a Reuters poll that it would remain at November's 53.8.

The PMI survey was conducted from Dec. 5 to Dec. 19, so included responses both before and after Prime Minister Theresa May gained agreement from the EU to move Brexit talks on to discuss transitional arrangements and a longer-term trade deal.

However, British retailers — who are not included in the PMI — have reported mixed fortunes over the Christmas period.

Bank of England said consumers increased their borrowing by the smallest amount since mid-2015 in the three months to November. This reinforced official data last month which

LONDON: Britain's economy appears to have picked up some speed in late 2017 and businesses grew more upbeat about 2018, a closely watched survey showed on Thursday, little more than a year before the country is due to exit the European Union.

London house prices in first annual fall since 2009

LONDON: The average price of a home in London dropped in 2017 for the first time in eight years on fallout from Brexit, data showed on Thursday.

While prices were up nationwide, they were down in London for the first time since 2009, mortgage lender Nationwide calculated.

UK house prices rose by 2.6 percent overall last year — slower than the 4.5 percent seen the previous year — said Nationwide, whose monthly survey is closely watched by markets.

However, "London saw a particularly marked slowdown, with prices falling in annual terms for the first time in eight years, albeit by a modest 0.5 percent" during the fourth quarter, said Nationwide chief economist Robert Gardner. — AFP was about 354 billion riyals ($94 billion), by far the largest amount in any quarter of 2017 and accounting for 38 percent of all state spending for the entire year. Much of the government money eventually flowed into the private sector, boosting activity.

"The December PMI survey continued to show a strong rate of expansion in December, and the data suggests that non-oil growth accelerated in the final quarter of 2017, as well as for the year as a whole compared to 2016," said Khatija Haque, head of regional research at Emirates NBD. Output growth slowed to 62.8 in December from 64.3 in November, while growth in new orders eased to 63.2. Employment growth sped up slightly to 50.9, however. — Reuters

DUBAI: Growth of Saudi Arabia's non-oil private sector slowed slightly in December but remained high compared to levels seen in the past two years, a corporate survey showed on Thursday.

The seasonally adjusted Emirates NBD Saudi Arabia Purchasing Managers' Index edged down to 57.3 last month from a two-year high of 57.5 in November. A level above 50 means business is expanding.

Budget data released by the government in mid-December showed that after more than two years of austerity, state spending jumped in the fourth quarter of 2017 as authorities sought to strengthen weak economic growth.
