One of the members pointed out that policy guidelines issued after the June 6 meeting of the Economic Coordination Committee of the Cabinet also were inconsistent with the Ogra ordinance and relevant rules and were not endorsed by the federal cabinet.

He said Ogra will also have to examine how and why one per cent LNG retainage allowed under the request for proposals for terminal operator were later changed to 1.5pc to protect itself from litigation.

Another member pointed out that the ECC decision to define LNG as petroleum product to bypass CCI was also legally weak because if LNG was treated as petroleum product than gas companies would have to renamed as oil marketing companies and fix sale price at their own as was the case with oil companies in case of oil products.
