3. Introduction of the Program:

It is widely alleged that rural youth are increasingly disinterested in smallholder farming, which is viewed as 'dirty work'. Thus, rural youth tend to be relatively mobile. Recent research shows that migration from rural to urban areas will continue on a large scale and that this is an essential part of the livelihood coping strategies of the rural poor. It is important therefore that young people in rural areas are prepared for productive lives in both rural and urban environments.

Rural youth tend to be poorly educated, especially in comparison to urban youth. The extent of 'urban bias' in the provision of publicly funded education and training services is large in most low-income developing countries. The deployment of teachers and other key workers to rural areas amounts to nothing less than a crisis in many countries. Poor quality education, high (direct and indirect) schooling costs and the paucity of 'good jobs' continue to reduce the demand for education among poor parents.

4. Major Objectives:

- To bring the Rural Youth on a platform where they emerge as a Star
- To initiate long-term projects for the development of rural youth
- Engage youth in variety of activities to gain personal, social and economic empowerment.
- To make the youth able to meet the standard requirements of industries.
- To reduce the unemployment
