Cotton under pres

By Our Staff Correspondent

MULTAN: Cotton prices came under pressure on Saturday due to less interest from spinning-mill owners. The Karachi Cotton Association, however, kept its spot rate unchanged.

Cotton brokers said deals of new crop were made at Rs350 lower rates; however, the prices remained unchanged for old crop deals.

They said the decline in prices was alarming, and asked the government to support the textile industry which was facing hardship.

To reduce the production

cost of textile products, the government announced a subsidy of Rs5 per electric unit, but no step has been taken in this regard so far, they said.

They said the price of phutti (seed cotton) dropped by up to Rs150. The price of new phutti was Rs3,325 in Badin, Rs3,350 in Thatta, Rs3,375 in Umerkot and Rs3,325 in Kunri.

They said that although the proper arrival of new crop has yet to be started, the government should take the matter seriously to protect the interest of farmers who could lose interest in the crop if things didn't go well.
